CARE AND MAINTENANCE

Leather is a product of nature. How it is processed is an art. Leather is no mere covering. Leather is skin. Is it any wonder it connects with us the way it does? The look. The feel. Even the smell. Leather is soft and supple yet so durable it wears four times longer than even the most stalwart upholstery. Beautiful yet practical, leather has all the nuance of a fine wine.

Care and Maintenance

Since most leather is inherently stain resistant, resilient and durable, it requires very little maintenance. In fact, the best maintenance for leather is use. Occasional dusting with a dry cloth should be all that is necessary to clean and maintain it.

Spills should be wiped up immediately, since anything alcoholic or acidic could eventually eat its way through the protective finish if left on over a period of time. Pure aniline leathers and leathers without a protective finish (such as suede, nubuck and distressed leathers) should be kept out of strong, direct sunlight so that they do not fade.

Do not apply commercial saddle soap, oils, cleaners or “home remedies” such as hairspray to the leather. Many of these products are not made specifically for use on upholstery leather and can harm the leather.

High-End, Rustic Powder Room project using NappaTile Essentia by Concertex

NappaTile by Concertex

Specifications will be provided upon request

NappaTile provide a sense of warmth and comfort to a space, contrasting with hard surface tiles such as porcelain, ceramic and stone which powder and bath rooms normally use. The depth provided by the padded and upaded tiles also give the appearance of a larger size room.

NappaTile was used in two wall areas of this powder room in floor to ceiling application. Faux leather tiles can be used in areas where it is not in direct contact with moisture or extreme humidity such as showers and steam rooms.

EvoFabric Dimensional by Concertex

EvoFabric Pleated by Concertex

EvoFabric Etched by Concertex

EvoFabric Dimensional by Concertex : Is a revolutionary, padded faux leather created by an ultrasonic sealing process. It has extreme depth for 3 dimensional look, while flexible enough for easy upholstery. The faux leather surface passes over 100,000 double rubs, and contains a built-in graffiti-free layer for stain-free atmosphere. Stains and ball-point pen marks can easily be wiped away with just a dry towel.

EvoFabric Pleated by Concertex : Features a contract-grade pleated faux leather with unrivaled softness and texture. The polyurethane fabric was shrunk in half to create an extraordinary pleated look. It was tested over 100,000 double rubs for heavy duty application; twice the material, twice the strength.

EvoFabric Etched by Concertex : Seamlessly engraves brilliant metallic colors into the complex embossed contours of a polyurethane faux leather. The range of designs has no limit as multiple metallic colors can be combined with various emboss patterns. These materials may look decorative with its shining radiance but the materials are high performance as they are graffiti-free, pass over 100,000 double rubs and are bleach cleanable.
